Tales of Terror.

An eye-witness says: "I stood on Nob Hill with hundreds of scantily-clad and terror-stricken men and women, and watched the jets of flame that were breaking out here and there in the distance, telling the death and ruin which was befalling the helpless city."

Newton W. Emmens, a Pittsburg civil engineer, drew a vivid picture of the destruction of San Francisco when he arrived in Chicago yesterday, on his way back to his home from the Golden Gate. Mr. Emmens escaped unharmed from the Hotel Argyle, which was directly across the street from San Francisco's $7,000,000 court house, which was reduced to ruins. He obtained a number of photographs of the disaster, which are reproduced by the Chicago Examiner this morning. Mr. Emmens' story is as follows:

"I was awakened from a sound sleep by plaster falling in the room. I could hear a low rumbling noise, which told the fearful truth. The city was being torn to pieces by a series of earthquake shocks, and huge buildings were groaning and swaying from the violence of the upheaval. Walls were falling into the street, and before I could get out of bed I could hear the shrieks of the injured filling the streets. I ran from my room to the ground floor.

"Hundreds of women and men, clad in their night clothes, were running hither and thither, crying and praying in their helplessness. Many started for the street, and then, realizing that the hotel was safer than the thoroughfares, which were being filled with falling walls and masses of wreckage, they returned.

"I went back to my room, and dressed, and then, in company with several men, started to find a telegraph office, so that I could notify my family that I was safe. We went down Market street, and saw that automobiles, wagons and carriages were driving rapidly to hospitals filled with the injured. Market street was impassable, as it was filled with piles of bricks and wreckage. I could not telegraph, as the wires were all down, and so, by a devious and winding route, made my way to Nob Hill.

"There were hundreds of persons gathered in that section of the city. We could see that fires were breaking out here and there, and knew that with the broken water mains, the firemen could not check them. Finally many of us reached the ferry and crossed the bay to Oakland. The whole city slept out in the open air the next night, for even those whose homes were not destroyed were afraid to sleep under a roof for fear of another shock. The next day I tried to get back to San Francisco, but the militia would not let us back in the city."—Examiner.

New Shake Causes Terror.

San Francisco, April 23.—A sharp earthquake shock was felt here at 10:30 o'clock tonight. It lasted about three seconds and was from east to west. No damage has been reported.

The tremble, as Frisco people call them, created much terror throughout the city.

BRILLIANT CEREMONIAL

Last Night Society Attended Fashionable Nuptials.

MISS LOUISE COX BECAME MRS. JAMES HENRY RUDY

Handsome Bridal Reception Followed at the Armour Gardner Home.

OTHER NEWS IN WORLD OF SOCIETY.

One of the most brilliant and attractive weddings ever occurring in this city for a prominent young couple, was that of last evening at the Broadway Methodist church by Miss Louise Cox and Mr. James Henry Rudy, two of the city's best known young people. It was decidedly a leading social affair and the elite and other friends were in attendance being one of the most fashionable of gorgeously attired people ever assembling to witness the union of heart and life of a happy and popular pair. The attendance was probably the largest of any for years, the huge auditorium and Sunday school rooms being unable to seat the throng.

The church decorations were very beautiful, profuse smilex arrangements adorning the arched doorway dividing Sunday school room and church proper, while embanked around the chancel were potted plants and other floral attractions set with an artistic grace.

A few moments after 9 o'clock the bridal party entered all coming in from the Seventh and Broadway door, and passing up the right and left aisles to the chancel. Misses Anita Wood of Wichita, Kan., and Ella Sanders came first, all attendants walking along down the separated aisles, meeting at the altar. Messrs. James Hodge of Henderson, and Charles Alcott of here, came next, followed by Misses Rubye Corbett and Ethel Brooks. Then came Messrs. Stewart Sinnott and John Brooks, then Messdames Saunders Fowler and Thomas Hall, followed by Messrs. Richard Rudy and William Rudy. The maid of honor Miss Martha Davis, entered down the left aisle alone, and was followed by the charming bride, leaning upon the arm of her brother, Mr. Charles Cox. At the altar she was met by the groom, who entered from the side door accompanied by his best man Mr. Edwin J. Paxton. Reaching the altar, Miss Cox took the arm of her betrothed, and there they were pronounced man and wife by Rev. W. E. Cave of the First Presbyterian church. The ceremony was supplemented with the blessings of

LAWYER IN PEN

CONVICTED FOR CONSPIRACY TO DEFAUD CITY ON BOGUS CLAIMS.

Had $3,000,000 of Claims Against City of Brooklyn for Sewer Flooding Loss.

New York, April 24.—William O. Miles, a well known Brooklyn lawyer, and formerly assistant district attorney of Kings county, was today sentenced to one year in the penitentiary and to pay a fine of $500 for conspiracy to defraud the city by bogus claims for loss by the flooding of sewers. His clerk, Charles H. Wells, received a similar sentence. Claims for damages amounting to $3,000,000 were in Miles' possession when he was arrested.

NO LIQUOR TO BE SOLD ON CARNIVAL GROUNDS NEXT WEEK

This Decision Was Made in Plain Terms During the Aldermanic and Councilmanic Gathering Last Evening—Money Goes to San Francisco at Once.

During the called meeting of the aldermen, and the separate special session of the council last evening, there was adopted a resolution stipulating in broad terms that no liquors should be sold upon the carnival grounds next week at Twelfth and Trimble streets. Some of the city officials did not thoroughly understand the privileges granted the festival people, so that there could be no misunderstanding, this plain resolution was sanctioned, and prohibits the disposal of intoxicants upon the grounds, in the German Village.

When a carnival is given, people from outside come here and want to start lunch stands, ball-throwing racks, case racks and other temporary stands of business for the festival week. To do any kind of business, people have to pay the city's license, but for the entertainment week the municipal authorities have always heretofore given the carnival promoters the permission to collect and keep the license money paid by people drawn here to sell their carnival articles for those six days. Heretofore, the carnival people have had some saloonist out in the city to get the public legislators transfer the saloonist's license to the festival grounds, so intoxicants could be sold in the German Village during the week. Now, for fear that the festival promoters may presume that the license concessions granted them the privilege to sell liquor on the grounds, the aldermen and councilmen adopted the resolution, which specifies in broad terms that no intoxicants are to be disposed of there under any circumstances next week.

During their separate special meeting last night, the aldermen gave final adoption to the ordinance granting the street railway company the right to lay tracks upon the streets mentioned through these columns yesterday, and which thoroughfares are not now covered by the system. Second adoption was given the measure permitting the car line to take up tracks upon certain streets they now operate over.

Second adoption was given the resolution directing that the $3,000 be paid back the Cumberland Telephone company, it being the money the city collected from the concern, with understanding that the company was to get a certain kind of franchise from the city, but which specified grant was never given the company.

It was ordered that License Inspector George Lennhard accompany over the city the "dog wagon" to see if everybody owning a canine has paid the city license on the brute. If not, the canine is to be taken up, killed and warrants gotten against the owner. The wagon for the dogs is now being constructed, it to consist of a huge cage on top a vehicle, inside which the captive brutes are to be hauled away to the dog pound below the I. C. incline, at foot of Campbell street. There the brutes will be killed and turned over to the "dog and animal crematory," sitting in the river close by, and their carcasses converted into soap grease.

This finished all the business for the aldermen, who adjourned their extra session.

The council held a separate called gathering, and confirmed the Monday night action of the aldermen, in ordering that $500 be sent by this city to San Francisco to assist the sufferers of that unfortunate city. The money will be sent right away, and the council decided not to claim from the city treasury the $3 each is allowed for attending the called meeting, inasmuch as it was assembled for special purpose of allowing the money, which is intended for charity.

The council confirmed the aldermen's order that the city license inspector accompany over the city the caged wagon that will take up untamed dogs and send them to the slaughter pen.

WISDOMESTATE

EXECUTORS CONTINUE AT DUTIES WITHOUT EXECUTING BOND.

John Garner Has Dropped the Suit to Test Marshall County's Special $1 Tax for Road Purposes.

Yesterday, in the county court, there was withdrawn by Belle Wisdom Bronston the motion she made the day before to require Rev. W. E. Cave and Mr. George C. Wallace to execute bond to guarantee the faithful performance of their duties as executors of the estate of the late B. H. Wisdom. The judge had set the matter for hearing yesterday afternoon, but when it was called, Mrs. Bronston withdrew it, which means the estate executors continue performing their duties without any bond being required.

Matter Dropped.

Mr. Dave Reeves, former sheriff of Marshall county, is in the city, and yesterday said that John Garner, of Benton, had decided not to carry to the appellate court of this state his suit, wherein Garner claimed illegal the special tax of $1 assessed against every citizen of Marshall county for county road purposes. After Judge Reed decided that the special tax was legal, Garner announced he would appeal, but now reconsiders and drops the litigation by paying the $1 tax, and in addition the court costs he had gone to fight the matter, it totalling $42, exclusive of attorneys' fees. Mr. Reeves was sheriff when Garner brought his suit to prevent him (Reeves) from selling Garner's property to collect the $1, and now since the case was dropped, Reeves collected the money due.

Sell Remainder Interest. Trustee A. Y. Martin is now drawing up a petition, requesting Referee E. W. Bagby, of the bankruptcy court, to order sold the remainder interest of M. G. Sale, the bankrupt, in property belonging to his wife. When

Sale filed his petition in bankruptcy, he claimed he had a homestead right in the property, and this was exempted. The creditors carried the matter to the United States district court at Cincinnati, where it was decided Sale's right of the property was a "remainder interest," which means that which would remain in his name on death of his widow. Now the trustee wants this interest sold, and proceeds devoted to paying off Sale's debts.

Decide Obstruction Case.

Justice John J. Bleich will today some time decide the case charging Jim McKinney, of the county, with obstructing a public highway by building a fence out on to the road. The magistrate heard the evidence last Saturday, but has not yet decided the proceeding that was taken by him under advisement at that time.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR

PADUCAH COMMANDERY DONATES $100 TO SAN FRANCISCO FRATERS.

At Conclave Last Night the Annual Election of Officers Occurred.

Last evening Paducah commandery No. 11, K. T. met in stated conclave in their asylum in the Fraternity building. The annual reports were read and the election of officers held.

By a unanimous vote the commandery donated $100 to the stricken Knights Templars of San Francisco, and elsewhere in California.

The officers elected were Geo. O. Ingram, commander; Harry R. Hank, generalissimo; E. W. Whittemore, captain general; W. H. Coleman, prelate; C. O. Brown, senior warden; Fred Roth, junior warden; J. H. Oehlschlaeger, treasurer; Fred Acker, recorder; J. W. Kelton, standard bearer; R. E. Fulmer, sword bearer; H. L. Meyers, warder; and H. W. Hills, sentinel.

ELECT TEACHERS OF THE SCHOOLS

This Will Not Be Done Next Tuesday Evening.

ALUMNI ORGANIZATION INFORMALLY DISCUSSED

Hon. Hal S. Corbett Delivered Brilliant Address to High School Children.

GRADUATING CLASS FROM AMONGST JUNIORS

Superintendent Lieb of the public schools yesterday said that he would not recommend to the school that the latter elect teachers next Tuesday evening during their regular monthly meeting. He believes it would be best to wait until the June meeting and make the selections, because if any of those happening to be in now, were not re-elected it would result in them losing interest in the work between now and end of the school, and the scholars suffer thereby with their studies. Secretary W. H. Pitcher said he had heard nothing about the election, therefore it is more than probable that the matter will go over until the June session.

Six Principals.

The six principals of the public schools compose committee selected to outline course of study for next year, and they are gradually making out the lists that will be finished within a few weeks. They are in no hurry because the result of their work does not become effective until time for opening of school next fall.

The principals have divided themselves up into committees of about four each, and are taking up the work systematically.

Preparing Their Parts.

The officers for the graduating class are now preparing their parts for the commencement exercises, but have not yet finished.

Not Yet Settled.

The insurance companies have not yet settled with the trustees the loss incurred by the latter by window glass breaking at the Washington building on West Broadway, on account of the heat from the Kelly fire next door. Just as soon as the companies settle for the loss the cracked panes will be taken out and new ones placed in.

Organize Alumni.

Yesterday afternoon a number of ladies and school teachers met at the office of Superintendent Lieb on West Broadway and talked over the coming organization of the alumni of all people who have graduated from this city's high school, no matter for this year or years past. The gathering to organize will be held next Friday afternoon at the high school building and prospects are for a very large alumni, as many ladies and gentlemen who graduated years ago are taking much interest in the movement.

Brilliant Address.

Yesterday morning for their opening exercise the scholars of the high school, listened to probably the most excellent address ever delivered there, it being by Hon. Hal S. Corbett, the versatile and talented attorney of this city. He talked to the children in a general way and it proved of great interest and instruction.

Different in Illinois.

The governor of California does not appear to be a man who moves precipitately. San Francisco was destroyed on Wednesday, and on Saturday evening he was considering the advisability of calling a special session of the legislature. In Illinois the general assembly is summoned whenever anybody in Chicago wants a new primary law.

TELEPHONE INJUNCTION

Motion Be Made to Dissolve Temporary Order.

PERMANENT HEARING UP IN NOVEMBER

Believed Telephone People Will Refuse to Accept Return of $3,000.

COMPANY MUST OBEY THE CITY LAWS

If the attorneys for the city of Paducah do not make a motion before Judge Walter Evans of the United States court, asking that there be set aside the temporary injunction granted against this municipality in favor of the telephone people, there will go over until November the injunction question altogether, and not be taken up for trial until that time by the judge.

Judge Evans last week during the term of United States court here granted the telephone people an injunction, restraining the city of Paducah from interfering with the telephone company's business in any manner looking towards ousting the company, from doing business in Paducah. This temporary restraining order holds good and prevents the city from trying to throw the company out of town, until some disposition is made of the order. The only thing the city can do is to make a motion before Judge Evans to dissolve the temporary order against the municipality, and then if this motion is overruled, the litigation goes over until next November there will be taken up the permanent injunction question. The permanent point of the law cannot be taken up before then.

Today there will be placed in the hands of City Solicitor James Campbell, Jr., the check for $3,000 that will be offered back to the telephone people by the city, but it is expected that the concern will refuse to accept the money.

Judge Evans did not express himself in so many words when he granted the company an injunction against the city, but by his questioning and actions he indicated a belief that the city should not keep the telephone people's $3,000. Acting on the idea that return of this money will help the city out the company from doing business here in Paducah, the city legislators have ordered placed $3,000 in the hands of the city solicitor who is to tender the coin back to the company, with interest which has accrued during the past two years, it being that long since that the company paid the money over to the municipality, with the understanding that it squared all indebtedness the telephone people owed the city, and with the further understanding that the municipal authorities were to sell the company a certain kind of franchise. The city never put up this franchise for the company to buy in, therefore the money is now ordered returned. It is understood the telephone people refuse to accept the coin back believing it will be to their advantage in the courts, to show the municipality accepted the $3,000 but did not carry out its franchise part of the contract. If the company does refuse, it is believed this tender by the city will be favorable to the municipality in offering proof to the court that the public authorities were inclined to do the right thing.

One city official yesterday said they had not fully decided but that probabilities were a motion would be made to Judge Evans to dissolve the temporary injunction against the city, so the municipality could proceed with the suit it has filed in the local circuit court, to oust the corporation from doing business here.

One city authority yesterday an-

STOMACH OF COLORED WOMAN

DR. RIVERS WROTE TO FIND OUT WHAT HAD BEEN DONE.

It Has Now Been Several Weeks
Since the Stomach Was Sent Away, But No Annual Report.

It seems that a delay of an unusual nature is prevailing, as regards Dr. Woody of Louisville analyzing the stomach of Femina McChesney, the colored woman of Eighth and Washington streets who died several weeks ago. The stomach was sent to Dr. Hays of the fall city to be analyzed, but he wrote back he was not prepared to do this character of work in his laboratory, so turned the organ over to Dr. Woody who is in position to make the analysis. This was about two weeks ago, but as yet no word has been received from Dr. Woody.

Monday Dr. Horace Rivers wrote the expert asking him what he had done in the matter, and urging that he hurry up and make a report back here, showing what the analysis found in the stomach. Dr. Rivers was the physician who cut out the stomach the day the negress died, and forwarded it to Louisville experts, under instructions from the local county court which bears the expense of analysis, that is $100.

Dr. Rivers yesterday expressed himself as believing that Dr. Woody must be unusually busy with other important things, and then again he may be finding the analysis a complicated one, and unable to immediately determine the contents of the stomach.

The woman sent her little girl to Iverson and Wallace's drug store at Seventh and Washington for quinine, and she took the medicine given the daughter. The mother died in a few hours, and the analysis will determine whether the druggists sold her, quinine or other medicine.

TELEPHONE

nounced that some people seemed to think that when Judge Evans issued the injunction against the city, it permitted the telephone people to go ahead and do just as they wanted to. This is an error, as the restraining order only refuses to let the municipal officers proceed with their state court suit to oust the company, and does not prevent the city compelling the telephone company to abide by the public laws, just like any other individual or company. If the company violates any laws it will be prosecuted just like anybody else.

PURCHASING CO.'S BUSINESS

MASTER COMMISSIONER REED
FILES HIS REPORT
TODAY.

It Will Show That the Concern
Owes Over $27,000, and Has Just
One-Sixth That Sum.

After working for many months on the matter Master Commissioner Cecil Reed of the circuit court, will this morning complete and file in the court, his report, showing the liabilities and assets of The People's Home Purchasing company which became defunct last year and was forced out of business, by being thrown into the hands of a receiver, through medium of the courts. The report of the master commissioner will cover many typewritten pages, and shows there are about 800 parties holding claims against the defunct concern. The total liabilities are $27,412.60 while the assets will amount to only $5,000.

When the suit to wind up the business of the purchasing company, was filed in the circuit court, the case was referred to the master commissioner, to get up all the claims against the company, and also convert all properties the company owned, into available cash, to be used in paying off the indebtedness. It has taken the commissioner since last fall to get collected in all the accounts against the company, and also sell the real estate and houses owned by the purchasing corporation, and convert everything into cash. He has completed all this tedious work, with exception of bringing here some money that is in Atlanta, Ga., and belongs to the company.

Just as soon as the list of debts and liabilities are filed the judge will enter into adjudication of the litigation, by ordering what disposal shall be made of the coin.

Yesterday the appellate court at Frankfort sustained the action of Judge Reed of the local circuit court, in the case where H. H. Loving had been indicted on the charge of doing business for the purchasing company without first procuring a state license. Judge Reed sustained a demurrer to the indictment, and ordered the action dismissed, but the commonwealth attorney John G. Lovett, carried the case to the appellate bench, but there lost again, the court deciding Loving had done nothing wrong. Indictments had been returned by the grand jury here against C. E. Whitesides, W. B. Kennedy, Dick Davis, H. H. Loving, J. S. Bordeaux and others, who were directors of the purchasing company, charging them with operating a company without license. It was decided that the one against Mr. Loving should be a test case and it was carried to the appellate court. The dismissal of it means that the balance of the indictments will be thrown out also.

POWER OF ATTORNEY

GEO. BEICHMAN GRANTED
THIS TO C. E. MILLER
YESTERDAY.

Many Deeds Continue Being Lodged
With the County Clerk to Be Recorded.

A document lodged for record yesterday with the county clerk, showing that power of attorney had been granted by George Beichman to C. E. Miller.

For $200, land out in the county was sold by W. D. and J. T. Mill to Mrs. M. B. Scott.

W. R. Hecker sold for $250 property on Massac creek, to S. W. Young.

Joseph Klein transferred to Edward A. Medley for $550, property on Hays between Campbell and Powell streets.

CHAUTAUQUA SITE CHOSEN

IT WILL BE BEHIND OLD
THEATRE AT WALLACE
PARK.

Auditorium Tent Goes in the Open
Space While the Small Living
Tents Go in Abutting Woods.

The committee on grounds for the Paducah Chautauqua Association have selected the place for holding the mammoth gathering that promises to be one of the greatest events of this nature in the history of the city, participated in by thousands of people. The committee in deciding on the grounds, has selected that plot located two hundred feet in the rear which tops the hill of Wallace park. They believe these grounds will be the most suitably located for the purposes and will immediately get them into shape. Right behind, where the old burned summer theatre formerly stood, is an open space several hundred feet wide and several times as long. On this the committee contemplates spreading the huge auditorium tent, which will contain seats enough for several thousands, and wherein the platform will exist for the speakers and entertainers. Right on the other side of the open plot of ground is a huge clump of woods that is to be used for the tents to be erected under which canvas will reside hundreds of outsiders coming here to participate in the gathering.

All this ground is rolling, well drained, and could not be improved upon for the purpose desired.

Mr. James A. Shaw has returned to his home in Bloomington, Ill., but announced before departing, that he would be back here sometime between May 1st and 5th to remain for some days in shaping things up for the opening of the chautauqua during June.

DISTRICT FOR SALOONS

ORDINANCE WILL BE DRAWN UP AT ONCE FOR ADOPTION.

License Committee Decides All
Saloons Must Be Inside Clay
Tenth, Norton and the River.

The license committee of the city legislators has decided upon the district, outside of which no saloons will be permitted to flourish inside this city, and the ordinance committee at its next meeting, will instruct the city solicitor to draft the ordinance necessary to enact into a binding law, the boundaries selected for the "saloon district." The ordinance will be in for adoption at the meeting of the council, which is one week from next Monday evening.

The license committee has decided to start the district at Clay street and the river front, carry it out Clay to Tenth, over Tenth to Norton, down Norton to the river, and along the river to place of starting, at Clay street. The committee by the new law provides that within this district alone, saloons shall flourish, while outside none will be licensed to do business.

In establishing this boundary the city legislative boards had the matter referred to the license committee which fixed the district, and have now turned it over to the ordinance committee to bring in the law that will make their decision binding.

It is understood that the people running saloons outside this district are preparing to put up a vigorous fight and try to defeat the boundaries, because if established, those beyond the limit, will have to close up their places of business.

The main object in establishing these boundaries is to weed the grogshops out of the residence and suburbs portions of the city where there develops a character of saloons hard to handle, and especially those which permit females to frequent the places. It is against the latter that the greatest complaint has always been made, while it is believed that it would be best to force as many saloons as possible out of the residence parts of town.

LOCATES WEST

MR. JESSE CURD PREPARING
NOW TO LEAVE
SHORTLY.

He Will Start a Newspaper in Bokoshe, I. T., and Later One in Spiro.

Mr. Jesse G. Curd, the well known mail carrier, expects to leave tomorrow or next day for Bokoshe, I. T., to locate and start his newspaper. He has packed up his household goods, and believes he can depart by Friday at the outside. He will be accompanied by Mr. Page Putnam, the well known newspaper man, who will have charge of the composing rooms for the new plant.

Mr. Curd is a old newspaper man himself, but has been in the mail service for several years past. He has organized his company, and made all arrangements for the Bokoshe paper, while later may issue one also over at Spiro, which is only a short distance from the first mentioned city. He made all his arrangements while out to those places several weeks ago.

Mr. Curd thinks Bokoshe is one of the most prospective cities of the territory, being greatly surprised when he visited there a month or two ago, to see what rapid strides were being made in bringing the community up to a metropolitan city. He believes the future before it is one of much importance.

SMILEY FINED.

He Is Assessed Penalty of $30 For Selling Without a License.

Yesterday morning in the police court Charles Smiley, colored, was given a continuance until today of the warrant charging him with selling liquor without a license down or Kentucky avenue between First and Second streets. He is the former saloonist whose license was taken away from him. After court adjourned yesterday Smiley was fined $30.

Shep Landers, colored, was held to the grand jury on the charge of false swearing. He swore under oath that he did not curse and abuse Mattie Love, negress, when it was proven he did.

Will Scott was fined $5 and costs for a breach of the peace.

FIDELITY AND CASUALTY COMPANY HAS TO PAY ROSE POLICY.

There Is Submitted to Judge the Suit of Lawyer Harper Against the Afternoon Sun.

Yesterday, in the Circuit court, Judge Reed gave judgment to plaintiff against defendant for $4,500, in the suit of Felix G. Rudolph, administrator of the estate of the Herbert A. Rose estate, against the Fidelity and Casualty Insurance company. Rose was killed last August by H. H. Loving in the Fraternity building, and at the time carried an accident policy in this insurance company, which refused to pay the amount of the policy on the ground that the death was not by accident. The administrator of the estate filed suit and now gets judgment, the court deciding the company is liable under the policy.

A divorce was granted Sarah Begwell from Bunyon Begwell.

There was overruled defendant's demurrer in the suit of J. W. Bean against Lawyers Taylors and Lucas. J. W. Bean is the father of Engineer Robert Bean, of the I. C. The father claims Taylor and Lucas owe him several hundred dollars, because they enticed his son into this state so service could be gotten on him by Taylor and Lucas for the Stevenson, Nichols and other suits coming about on account of the death and injury to the picnic party by Engineer Bean's train at Dawson several years ago.

There was set for trial on the 19th of this term of court the trial of the suit of the Mechanics and Farmers Savings bank against Joe L. Friedman.

There were waived the jury in the suit of Lawyer Harper against the Afternoon Sun, and the action submitted to the court individually. Harper claims the paper compromised the suit of Allen Free, who was represented by Harper as a lawyer, without the attorney's consent being secured to the settlement. Harper sues the paper for the fee he would have gotten from Free if the latter had not dropped the litigation against the paper for publishing erroneous articles that greatly damaged him. The articles claimed that he was insane, because he kept the dead body of his son aboard his shantyboat, and the newspaper paid Free a certain sum of money to drop his suit against them.

A Curious Verification of Prophecies.

Here are Spangler's prophecies for 1906, published at the beginning of the year in the New York World:

The dissolution of Russia.

The overthrow of Turkey.

The assassination of the Czar of Russia.

The assassination of the Sultan of Turkey.

The prevention of three wars by President Roosevelt.

A protracted race war in the south.

Devastating spring floods in the United States.

A destructive eruption of Mount Vesuvius.

The activity of Mount Pelee and Popocatepetl.

Volcanic eruptions in all parts of the world.

The eruption of many volcanoes now supposed to be extinct.

Great loss of life at sea by storms.

Destruction of two western cities by cyclones.

Earthquakes in all parts of the world.

Destructive earthquake in California and the Philippines.

Rebellion in Spain.

Great disturbances all over Europe.

The summer of 1906 will be hot and sultry throughout the temperate zone, with extensive death rate.

Christ will make his spirit felt among the people of the United States and England, in which countries there are to be fervent religious and political movements which are to overcome in a great degree the present spirit of graft and commercialism.

The United States will continue as a world power and the leader of other nations.

Pennsylvania is to have an administration of the people and that discoveries of corruption will be discovered which will drive some of the guilty to suicide.

God will wreak terrible vengeance upon the Russians for the massacre of the Jews.

They Deliver the Goods.

Ever anxious to offer the very newest and most novel acts, regardless of cost or trouble, the Cole Brothers this season present among a grand profusion of awe-inspiring marvels with their united shows the incomparable Aerial De Espas. Each and every member of this matchless troupe seemingly controls the laws of gravitation in each of their many death defying deeds of daring. Of them it may be truthfully said they begin where all other aerialists stop. Working on apparatus at the uppermost top of the huge canvas dome and without a net or safe guard of any kind beneath them, these venturesome men and women execute their many hair raising stunts with the same unconcern the average person partakes of a dinner. Wherever seen they are proclaimed by press and public post-graduates of their dangerous profession. Cole Brothers United Shows will exhibit Friday afternoon and evening April 27, in Paducah, at which time show-goers in this vicinity will be afforded an opportunity of seeing this wonderful troupe. It, however, is only one of the several mighty feature acts to be placed on view by these shows which do not now have and never have had room for threadbare and worn out numbers. Before obtaining a contract with the Cole Brothers, performers must be able to "deliver the goods" and they have got to be something better than others possess, too. Imitators are never tolerated and as a result every name upon the program of these shows is that of an originator in his or her respective line. Even the dashing particulars in the games of modern Rome strive their greatest at every performance to excel over their competitors. It is because of all this that Cole Brothers shows are today alone and unrivalled.

The class officer has not yet been chosen, but will be shortly.

Cloonan Under Bond.

Engineer Edward Cloonan, of the Illinois Central railroad, yesterday executed bond for his appearance before the next term of court to answer the charge of maliciously cutting Harry Allen, the saloonkeeper of South Third near Broadway. Cloonan was indicted last week by the grand jury before the criminal court closed the Saturday just passed. The engineer is an I. C. man, and one day last summer at Eighth and Broadway got into a fight with Allen, who claims Cloonan made an insulting remark about a lady relative of his. Allen whipped Cloonan, and they were separated, and the crowd started on down the street, when Cloonan, with an unexpected swipe of his knife, cut Allen's throat for many inches, causing the latter to nearly bleed to death.

SIGNED CONTRACT

THE DOCUMENTS WILL BE GOTTEN INTO SHAPE BY TODAY.

Contractor Ingram Will Begin at Once Work of Erecting Addition—Small Blaze Yesterday.

Chief James Woods, of the fire department, will today have some changes made in the contract drawn up for signature by Contractor George Ingram, to whom has been awarded the work of constructing the addition to the South Side fire department house at Fourth and Elizabeth streets. The contract was drawn up several days ago, but some alterations have to be made in it, and then the document given Mr. Ingram to sign, wherein he agrees to do the work properly.

Contractor Ingram has been ready to start the work for the past week, but had to wait until there was drawn up for his signature and also that of the city officials the contract stipulating what is to be done by him. He said yesterday that just as soon as they signed up with him he would start things off, being ready to commence at a moment's notice. The addition is to be put up on the rear end of the present building, and to cost about $1,200.

Small Blaze.

The coalhouse in the rear of Dr. John Oehlschlaeger's home on Sixth near Broadway took fire last afternoon about 5 o'clock and was destroyed, but the loss is very small. It is thought the wooden structure ignited from some live coals in an ash pile standing out that way. The blaze was extinguished with this chemical engine.

MINISTERS HELD THEIR MEETING

THE PARK QUESTION IS TO BE VIGOROUSLY AGITATED.

Committee of Divines Chosen to Look Well Into Question and Report What Move to Take.

Yesterday morning the ministers of the city met at the Broadway Methodist church and took up the question of seeing what assistance they could lend towards having established the downtown public park in the territory now bounded by Ninth, Eleventh, Washington and Broadway. There were nearly all the preachers present at the gathering yesterday, and they discussed the matter thoroughly from its various sides, and finally selected a committee that is to look further into the proposition and see what step they think best had be taken by the divines. This committee is composed of Rev. T. J. Newell, Rev. D. C. Wright and Rev. B. W. Bass, of the Broadway Methodist, Grace Episcopal and Tenth Street Christian churches respectively. They will report at the next meeting, to be held the coming Monday, by the ministers.

The main object of the preachers is to have a downtown park, while the secondary motive is to get the community rid of the scarlet district that is included in the territory mentioned above. It will be only a few years until this district is right in the center of the city; therefore, it should be moved, and the location converted into a centrally situated park.

The committee will frame up the best step it deems advisable and report their recommendations to the balance of the pastors.

Some people advocate that a bond issue be submitted to the people for money to buy these several blocks of ground, and convert it into a park, because the ready money is not in the treasury for this purpose.

Payments During Four Weeks.

The Old Mutual Life of New York paid during the four weeks of February, 1906, $2,000,000 in round numbers, in death claims and matured endowments to policy holders. No other company can show a record approaching this. In the two essential points of strength, assets and surplus over all liabilities, the Mutual Life stands first. ## How to Stop Bogus Suits.

The dispatches tell of a well known lawyer of Brooklyn being sentenced to one year in the penitentiary for conspiracy, and to pay a fine of $500.

It seems that he had served that city as assistant district attorney, and after retiring from office, he turned his energies towards getting up a lot of bogus claims against the city for supposed damages by the sewers flooding property. At the time of his arrest he had claims aggregating the enormous sum of $3,000,000, and no doubt when he sought these damage suits he thought he had struck a bonanza, but his conduct landed him in the penitentiary, where he will have ample time to reflect over his misdeeds.

We know of nothing more reprehensible in a lawyer than for him to have served the public and then turn right around and solicit suits against the very people who furnished him employment. In the case of the Brooklyn shyster, he was a menace to the peace and welfare of that city, but happily for the people the strong arm of the law reached out and arraigned him before the courts on a criminal charge. This course will be approved by all honest people, and it is the only way to rid a community of such shysters and legal sharks.

The example set by Brooklyn should be followed by every city, town and village, in the country in which such detestable characters are to be found. For we guarantee that it will be many years before any other lawyer will run around and try to get bogus claims against the city of Brooklyn. Even if that city had submitted to being held up on those claims, and paid ten cents on the dollar, it would have netted that shyster and his clients $300,000; or if the city had only paid one cent on the dollar it would have netted the sum of $30,000, and with one-half going to the attorney, he would have made the neat sum of $15,000. It is safe to say that when he gets out of the penitentiary that he will not resume the practice of law in Brooklyn, where he was classed as "a well known attorney." The reason he bore that reputation was because the people had not found out his true character. When he left the public service and began suing the city he came out in his true colors.

A dispatch announces that Mary Anderson Navarro will visit Kentucky Home-Coming week, and that her visit will be the first to her childhood home since she left America. A royal Kentucky welcome awaits the home-coming of the late queen of the American stage. We doubt if there is a living Kentucky woman more universally loved than Mary Anderson, and long after her death her memory will be cherished in the hearts of the generations yet to come.

While the insurance companies, life, fire and accident, will have to pay out millions of dollars on losses at San Francisco, yet hundreds of thousands of dollars will never be claimed because the entire families of some of the policyholders were destroyed and no trace of them left. Hundreds of bodies were burned beyond recognition, and all means of establishing many death losses were wiped out. Reduced down to these conditions, the matter of paying losses becomes quite a problem, for there is another feature to be considered, and that is, some of those who had a life policy might "disappear" until the policy is collected, hence the companies will be a little slow about settling policies unless absolute proof of death is furnished. So we may assume that attempts will be made to defraud the companies, and the companies, in turn, never be called upon to pay some policies.

The following paragraph from the Louisville Post gives some idea of the value of a monopoly of electric lighting:

"Ma Snead says the contract with the city requires the city to protect the lighting company from competition. That then means that the board of public works has of its own volition, without ordinance or advertisement, granted the lighting company an exclusive franchise for the whole city. The lighting company has said the Atherton ordinance conferred a franchise worth $100,000, yet it was not an exclusive franchise, and did not require the city to protect it against competition. By that comparison, the 'contract' which is to protect the lighting company against competition, must be worth several times $100,000."

False Prophets Arise.

Some preachers of the Dowie stripe and other self styled preachers though less widely advertised, and still as simple, attribute the great coast calamity to the sinfulness of the city. How cruel and inhuman are such intimations. If no city and towns had been reared near Vesuvius and on our California shore, if no living person, bear or bird had lingered near, those eruptions and quakes would have occurred just the same and at the same moment precisely. Christianity is handicapped by having such fools in its procession, for other lesser fools listen to them and believe in their false reaching.

Let Us Have More Light.

(Louisville Post.)

When the Atherton ordinance was introduced proving for the sale of a new electric franchise, the representatives of the old company declared that it carried a franchise worth $100,000, and they complained that they were by the terms of the ordinance excluded from bidding on it.

This was in effect a declaration that the Louisville Lighting company was ready to pay $100,000 for the lighting monopoly of the city of Louisville.

In our judgment, they could well afford to pay more than that, but they claim a monopoly now under the action of the board of aldermen, which has defeated the Atherton ordinance and the Chatterton ordinance.

The demand is now made that all of the small electric companies throughout the city be denied the right to furnish electricity to nearby consumers. These small establishments have been the sole check upon the electric lighting company, and they wish to have that check removed under the declaration that it is a violation of the constitution.

The new constitution is designed to secure control of corporations through competition, and to get for public franchises the highest possible price.

But these provisions designed for the people's protection have been used largely for the protection of corporations. The traction company has seen to it that franchises for new lines were sold piece-meal, and that they began always at some terminus of existing lines. This excluded competition, and for merely a nominal sum the traction company has been year by year enlarging the area subjected to its domination.

The lighting company hopes to profit by these same lessons. We believe its contention to be altogether untenable. The streets belong to the city of Louisville. They are to be used for the benefit of the citizens of Louisville. It seems a little audacious for a company that has been disgracing the streets of the city with its poles and obstructing it with its wires, now to object to the use of the public thoroughfares for transmitting light or power from some small station to some small consumer.

The difficulty is to secure from the general council fair consideration of any proposition for the protection of the city or of the citizens. The citizens have been indolent or asleep. The corporations have been alert, active and wide-awake. The Evening Post takes no stock in the wholesale charges of bribery. It sees in the activity of the corporation simply that of a business instinct which has only one thing in view, and that profit. We have a solution of all of the curious developments of the past few months in connection with the lighting ordinances, but these revelations should awaken the community to the necessity of protecting their own rights.

IS MOUNT CRIPPLED?

WARDEN OF PRISON THINKS HE IS UP TO SOME TRICK.

Sheriff John Ogilvie Telegraphed Last Night to Know if Boys Can Be Received at Reformatory School.

Sheriff John W. Ogilvie and his guards returned yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock from Eddyville, where they carried to the branch penitentiary the nineteen men convicted during the recent term of criminal court and given sentences in prison.

The sheriff stated that the warden of the penitentiary seemed to be a little suspicious about Willis Mount, who got seventeen years in the penitentiary for killing Willis Nutty two years ago above The Stag saloon, on North Fourth street. After the sheriff had turned the men all over to the prison officials, the convicts were taken on inside. Shortly thereafter the warden came to the sheriff and wanted to know how Mount happened to be crippled. Sheriff Ogilvie was surprised, and replied that the young fellow had not been crippled while in this city or being carried to Eddyville. The warden told the sheriff that Mount claims he had been crippled. The prison officer feared that Mount was up to some kind of a trick and would try to play crippled, get privileges and then break out. The warden said one man got away from them in the same manner, and they did not intend to take any more chances with the convicts. Mount formerly lived in Eddyville, and was a guard in the penitentiary; therefore, as they went through town and into the prison, he was greeted by many of his friends and former associates.

Sheriff Ogilvie last night wired the Lexington, Ky., reformatory school authorities to know if they had room enough at the institution for Ison A. Scott and Tom Albritton. The sheriff wrote them to this effect several days ago, but no reply was ever received to his communication. He will hear by this morning, and if the lads can be received, he and Deputy Sheriff Gus Rogers will leave with them, and also with Nannie Gray, the negro, who goes to the Frankfort prison to serve time for breaking into Joe Gardner's drug store. Mr. Ogilvie does not want to take away the lads, and then getting to Lexington, find there is no room in the institution for them.

DIRECTORY PRESIDENT

MR. S. D. SMITH HERE WINDING UP BUSINESS FOR NTW ISSUE.

President S. D. Smith of The Caron directory company of Louisville, has arrived in the city to be here several days seeing about closing many contracts they have here for advertising and subscriptions to the new directory they are now preparing to get out for this city. His canvassers and solicitors have been here for the past two months, getting up the names and addresses of all Paducah people and firms to be incorporated in the directory that will be out and ready for delivery sometime during June, and he comes down to see about winding up the work as rapidly as possible. This company issues the finest directories in the country, as evidenced by the one they got out two years ago, which could not be improved in any particular.

Awaiting Fixtures.

Manager W. J. Decker of the local office for the Southern Express company of South Third street near Broadway, is waiting for the new office furniture and fixtures that are coming from Pittsburgh and Chicago for him. When they arrive they will be installed in the building at 430 Broadway beside the R. W. Walker drug store where the express company will move from its present location on Third. The new outfit was manufactured especially for the new quarters.

MGR. LOVE GOES TO NASHVILLE

HE IS SUCCEEDED BY MANAGER JEFFRIES OF BEDFORD, IND.

Mr. Bergin Believes They Will Be Ready To Start Their System at Mayfield by Next Month

The first of next week Manager Love of the Independent Telephone company here, will be transferred to the office of the concern at Nashville, Tenn., while he will be succeeded here by Mr. Jeffries of Bedford, Ind. Mr. Love came here last fall from Indiana and is one of the best telephone men the country over, having spent his entire life in the business, and it is greatly due to his progressiveness that the Paducah system has been placed upon the high plane to which it is being elevated under the new management. He has hundreds of friends here who will regret to see him leave, but are gratified at the excellent place he takes with the big office at Nashville.

Mr. J. E. Bergin, one of the owners of the independent company, yesterday said he believed they would be ready to start their system at Mayfield, by the last of next month, as things were being hurried along and they doing their utmost to complete the plant at the earliest moment possible. The company has never had a plant before at Mayfield, but intend putting up a first class one, at cost of many thousands of dollars. They have been working on the system since last fall, there being in charge Mr. Davis, who was formerly manager of the local office, but assumed the chief of the installation work at the neighboring city.

ACCUSED OF STEALING

ALFRED ROGERS CHARGED WITH STEALING WEIL'S CLOTHING.

Yesterday, B. Weill & Son, the clothiers, had a warrant issued by Justice John J. Bleich, charging Alfred Rogers, white, with appropriating to his use about $40 worth of clothing. Rogers was employed as driver for the delivery wagon, and a week or two ago was sent with some packages to distribute among customers who had bought. A suit of clothes, cravatette coat and shoes were not heard of afterwards, while shortly thereafter Rogers suddenly quit his job.

Rogers was arrested early this morning near Ninth and Boyd streets by Officer Gross.

Officers Resume Duty.

Patrolmen Aaron Hurley and Alexander Friday resume their duties on the police force, as at that time there expires their week's vacation they took, under the ordinance which permits all members of this department to have seven days off on full pay each twelve months. Just as soon as these two men come back to work, Officers Johnson and William Rogers will take their week's vacation.

Enforce Ordinance.

The police commissioners yesterday instructed Chief Collins to rigidly enforce the ordinance preventing ball playing, flipper shooting, etc., on the streets by boys or others.

Cooley's Funeral.

Mrs. J. Cooley and daughter arrived from Texas at Mayfield yesterday to attend the funeral of their son and brother, Henry Cooley, who was killed Sunday morning by Officer Will Thomas of the police force of that city. The body will not be laid to rest until possibly sometime today, as they are waiting for the dead boy's brother, Mr. Morris Cooley, to come from Oklahoma where he was when the killing occurred.

The examining trial of Officer Thomas will be held about Friday so reports come here from Mayfield.

Brilliant Ceremonial

Rev. T. J. Newell of the Broadway Methodist church.

Following the marriage Mr. and Mrs. Armour Gardner entertained with a bridal reception at their handsome home on Fountain avenue in honor of their daughter and her groom. Many called to pay their respects to the couple and extend congratulations, wishing for them a long and happy married career. The residence was beautifully decorated for the auspicious occasion that teemed with gorgeousness throughout.

The bride for the ceremony was beautifully gowned in white satin, empaneled with real lace, and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and white roses, while the lady attendants were garbed in white, with pink roses to match, all being strikingly handsome and attractive.

No two young people of this city enjoy greater esteem and admiration than the contracting parties, who come of prominent West Kentucky families and have a bright future before them. The beautiful bride has been recognized as one of the most lovely and accomplished members of the younger society crowd since she made her debut several years ago. She is of a brunette type of beauty that never fails to engage the utmost admiration of all, to which is added her natural vivacity and charm of manner, that combine to make her a typical Kentucky society belle. She is the only daughter of Mrs. W. Armour Gardner.

Mr. Rudy is the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Rudy and is a young man possessing qualifications of an unusual sterling and admirable nature, that have shown him to be an enterprising and progressive young man. He creditably occupies a responsible position with the Rudy & Phillips house and is a genial young fellow whose friends include a very large circle.

This morning at 3:45 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Rudy left for the South upon their bridal tour, to be gone about two weeks.

During the ceremony the organ was presided over by Professor Harry Gilbert.

D. A. R. Meets.

This afternoon a called meeting of the Daughters of the Confederacy will be held with Mrs. Dr. Joseph Thompson of Jefferson street near Sixth, for purpose of winding up arrangements for the ladies to take charge of the Country Store during the carnival next week.

Missouri Couple.

Yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock Justice John J. Bleich at his office on Legal Row, married Mrs. Ada Morris of La Marra, Mo., and Mr. C. Staunton Wilson of Lutesville, Mo.

This is the second venture for both, who arrived here yesterday morning, and went back home last evening.

Staten Island Nuptials.

Miss Migon Chilton of Staten Island, N. Y. and Congressman Swager Shirley of Louisville, were married Saturday. One of the attendants was Mr. Louis Brownlow, the newspaper man formerly of here, but now of Washington, D. C.

BROADWAY METHODIST

QUARTERLY CONFERENCE REPORTS BEST IN HISTORY OF CHURCH.

Great Throngs Attending All the Revivals Being Conducted Here Now—W. C. T. U.

The reports made at the quarterly conference of the Broadway Methodist church last evening, were the best ever rendered in the history of the congregation, as they showed most excellent work in all the departments, while the financial condition is something very good. The conference was conducted by Presiding Elder J. W. Blackard and nearly all the officials were there.

The documents reported a total membership of the church, at $40, that included the 114 accessions by Pastor T. J. Newell, with assistance of the Rev. Culpeppers of Mississippi. The reports also showed that during the past three months something like $2,500 has been collected for general church purposes.

Last evening the congregation officials elected the church delegates who are to attend the Paducah District conference that will be held in Barlow sometime during July. The representatives from this flock will be B. H. Scott, J. M. Byrd, Samuel T. Hubbard, James M. Lang, Henry W. Katterjohn, Samuel H. Winstead, John W. Webb, Harry Gleaves, Vernon Blythe, William Scott, W. A. Martin, Dr. Hays, and Edward Newell. The district conference reviews the past years work of the district and also outlines that for the ensuing twelve months.

The other Methodist churches of this city will select their conference delegates at the next quarterly gatherings of the respective local congregations.

Revivals.

The revivals at the Tenth street Christian and Second Baptist churches, continue drawing great crowds nightly, and much good is being effected through their medium. The crowds overflow the two buildings each evening and effective sermons are being listened to.

Great Throng.

Last evening the St. Francis de Sales mission services were attended by all the people who could crowd into the edifice, while large flocks were turned away. Rev. Fathers Lambert and Murphy are without doubt among the most brilliant and forceful divines ever coming here; and the week promises to mark a great event in the local church history.

W. C. T. U. Meets.

Tomorrow afternoon at three o'clock the Paducah W. C. T. U. will meet in the lecture room of the First Baptist church. The exercises will be voted to the subject of social purity conducted by Mrs. Jettie M. Elliott, superintendent of this department.

In connection with the work, Mrs. H. H. Dufay will recite "The New Evangelism," by Will S. Hays, the Louisville poet.

All persons interested in securing "a single standard of morals," are most cordially invited.

WHITE RIBBON.

BIG TUMOR REMOVED.

Has Clung to the Face and Neck of Sam Gilbert, Colored, For 20 Years.

Yesterday Chief Surgeon Murrell of the railroad hospital, removed from the right jaw and cheek of a colored man named Sam Gilbert, a large tumor which had been there for the past twenty years. It extended from beside the ear, down the jaw and along the neck, reaching down nearly to the shoulder blade. Gilbert is employed at the shops here and the operation was a pleasing success. The tumor had been gradually growing for years past, and the darky was a familiar figure on the streets, on account of his affliction attracting the attention of all.

BAR ASSOCIATION.

Special Session to Take Up Charges Will Be Held Tonight.

This evening at 7:30 o'clock the Paducah Bar association holds its called session at the City Hall general assembly chamber, for purpose of taking up some charges that are to be preferred against members of the organization, charging them with unprofessional conduct in their business dealings.

President W. M. Reed called the special session, on being petitioned to do so, by nearly all the members of that body.

MONEY TO AID SUFFERERS

Preparations Being Made For the "Home Coming Day" to Be Held In This City.

The Commercial club is leading its efforts to raise money and send it to San Francisco to relieve the suffering, and to do this local work the following committee have chosen to solicit subscriptions: Muscoe Burnett and E. J. Paxton. F. L. Scott and J. C. Flournoy. J. C. Gilbert and Will Farley. E. Palmer and F. E. Lack. Henry Kamleiter and Virgil Sheriff.

F. M. Fisher and C. E. Jennings. E. W. Bockmon and George Langstaff.

T. L. Barry and J. V. Hardy. Sol Dreyfuss and J. L. Friedman. S. A. Fowler and C. M. Leake. J. C. Utterback and W. F. Poxton. Charles Weille and John Rinkliff. Jake Biederman and W. A. Berry. H. A. Petter and B. J. Billings. Dave Levy and F. H. Jones. B. H. Scott and W. P. Hummel. Pat Lally and C. W. Morrison.

Home Coming Day.

In preparing for the "Home Coming Day," the Paducah people intend seeing if a low railroad rate cannot be gotten here from Louisville, to bring a large crowd from the Falls City some one day of "Home Coming Week," for Louisville. To arrange for this work Mr. Ben Weille has been selected chairman of the committee composed of the following:

Sanders Brooks, F. F. Gholson, John Thompson, Will Yancey, Geo. Houser, Philip Newman, Adam Temple, John Smith, Dave Murphy, L. Stevens, Evan Jett, Lorton Durrett, John Spence, Jim Bradshaw, R. J. Barber, Wm. Paterson, Gus Singleton, Will Hummel, Baxter Kaykendall, Jake Englert, Tom Reid and Ben Hovekamp.

Interstate Commerce

HUNDREDS OF VISITORS WILL BE IN THE CITY TO ATTEND.

The annual gathering of the Interstate Odd Fellows' association will be held here tomorrow, at which time hundreds of brethren will be in the city from towns within a radius of 100 miles of Paducah. Great arrangements have been made for their entertainment, and a grand day will be ushered in.

The Odd Fellows will hold their meetings in the Fraternity building, on Broadway, the assembly rooms having been beautifully decorated for the gathering, while the Rebekahs will conduct their work in the Red Men's hall, on North Fourth, the Fraternity building quarters, not being large enough for both the mammoth assemblies.

The big parade of tomorrow afternoon is the first event of the day, it starting at 1:30 o'clock, with Mr. Charles Smith as grand marshal, and Messrs. Gus G. Singleton, Julian Switzer, Pete Bechenbach and Henry Seamon as assistants. The parade will form and march as follows:

First department on North Seventh facing Broadway.

City officials, municipal board members and police force on South Seventh facing Broadway.

All Daughters of Rebekahs, on South Sixth facing Broadway.

Paducah lodges on North Fifth facing Broadway.

All visiting lodges on South Fifth facing Broadway.

Line of March.

The parade will march down Broadway to Second street, south on Second to Kentucky avenue, west to Third street, south on Third to Jackson to Fifth street, north on Fifth to Madison street, west on Ninth to Broadway, east on Broadway to Fifth.

At Fifth and Broadway the procession disbands and goes to The Kentucky opera house, where Mayor Yeiser will deliver the address, welcoming the visitors. A response will be delivered by one of the interstate officials, following which W. A. Spence, of Metropolis, and Rev. Peter Fields, of this city, make short talks. The speaking adjourn at 4:30 o'clock, at which time a contest between bands will be held at Fourth and Kentucky avenue, $50 in gold being given as first prize, and $25 as second.

At 6:30 o'clock tomorrow evening, the business session for the Odd Fellows opens at the Fraternity building, while at 8 o'clock the Rebekahs conduct their degree work at the Red Men's hall. By 9 o'clock, the secret sessions will be closed, and all the Odd Fellows and friends repair to The Palmer, where the grand ball will be given, in bringing the gathering to a close.

Plenty of Worry Now.

This is without doubt a troubled period in the glowing interior of the earth and the troubled giant is not likely to grow quiet in a day or year, but those who read vague rumors of Honolulu slipping into the sea and are worrying about friends in that far-off place should be re-assured. There is more disquiet in men's minds just now than in the earth's interior and rumors are born in this mental condition with more facility and less cause than mosquitoes in a swamp.—Chicago Chronicle.

Passed Away This Morning

MR. R. T. NELSON SUCCUMBED TO STOMACH AILMENTS.

Was for Years Connected With the Illinois Central, and Highly Esteemed by Everybody.

This morning, at 1:15 o'clock, there passed from life Mr. R. T. Nelson, the well known retired railroad, at his home in 1218 Broadway, after a confinement with stomach ailments since last November. His condition had been such for the past week that death was expected at any time.

Mr. Nelson was born 66 years ago at Belfast, Ireland, and came to this country when he had 15 years of age. He served upon one of the government battleships during the Civil War, and when the troubles came to a close, he came to this city, which has been his home ever since.

For years the deceased was connected with the Illinois Central railroad in the car inspection department, but four years ago retired on a pension. He was a man who stood high in the community, and was highly esteemed by his many friends, who found in him a sterling gentleman possessed of many excellent qualities.

He is survived by his wife and one daughter here, Miss Ida Nelson. His sister surviving is Mrs. Kate Wilson, of Hocking, Ohio, while two brothers live in Zanesville, Ohio, Messrs. Matthew and T. Nelson. Another brother is Mr. John Nelson, of San Francisco.

He was a member of the Presbyterian church, and affiliated with Ingleside lodge of Odd Fellows.

The funeral services have not yet been arranged.

Eagles to Donate.

State Grand President Louis P. Head, of the fraternal order of Eagles, today issued the following call to all Eagles' lodges in Kentucky:

"All Eagles, wherever situated, are expected and requested to contribute to the fund being raised by this order for the San Francisco sufferers. The tax levied for this purpose has been withdrawn, and each lodge and individual member is requested to forward liberally contributions at once to A. E. Patridge, Grand Secretary, Kansas City, Mo., specifying San Francisco relief fund."

When the cat is away the night is quiet. A friend in need is a friend to steer shy of.

KING GEORGE OPENS THE OLYMPIC GAMES.

Rulers of Greece and England Lend Dignity and Pomp to Ceremonies at Athens—Contests Begin.

Athens, April 24.—Under glorious sunshine following a showery morning, the opening ceremonies of the Olympic games were performed today by King George of Greece. The huge stadium was already packed to its utmost capacity when the royal procession arrived to the strains of the Greek and British anthems.

First came a carriage containing King George and Queen Alexandra; then came a carriage with King Edward and Queen Olga. These were followed by carriages with Princess Victoria, the Prince and Princess of Wales and the members of the Greek royal family, with their brilliant suits and representatives of the various European courts. The procession traversed the whole length of the stadium, amid vociferous cheering, and the dignitaries took seats in a semi-circle.

Then Crown Princess Constantine, Duke of Sparta, who is president of the games, moved from the center of the arena, saluting King George, and read an address stating the objects of the meeting, and expressing the hope that the victors, whatever their nationality, would remember that their victory had been acclaimed on the sacred soil of Athens by descendants of the ancient Hellenes. He concluded by begging King George to proclaim the opening.

King George arose and briefly declared the games opened. All the participants in the games then moved in procession around the stadium, headed by bands of music. As the 900 picked athletes of the world moved past, presenting an imposing display, they were cheered to the echo.

Passing the royal personages, the standard bearer of each team impressively lowered the flag of his country. King George gravely returning the salute.

The games began with gymnastic displays and contests. No Americans participated today. The members of the royal families remained to the finish. Tonight, the Acropolis was brilliantly illuminated.

Eli B. Parsons, New York A. C.; Fay R. Moulton, Kansas City A. A.; James S. Mitchell and H. L. Hillman, New York A. C., are steadily improving, and probably will be able to compete in the games.

An Umpire Slain.

Dallas, Tex., April 23.—Edward E. Lewis was killed at Marlow, I. T. yesterday, while umpiring a baseball game between Marlow and Duncan clubs. Lewis rendered a decision that angered the Duncan players, and he was hit with a baseball bat and his skull was crushed.

Oscar and Frank Thomas are in jail, charged with murder.

ENGLISHMAN PICKS

AMERICANS TO WIN.

London, April 24.—The Oxford-Cambridge sports have come and gone, and Oxford won by seven events to three. A worse day for athletics I have never seen. A cold northeaster blowing a gale, and the rain coming down in torrents most of the time. In view of these conditions, the performances were remarkable, particularly the quarter in 5:15, and the half in 1:56.3-5, by F. Cornwallis, of Oxford, and the mile in 5:21.1-5, by A. R. Welsh, of Cambridge. P. M. Young, a Cecil Rhodes scholar at Oxford, from the University of Dakota (U. S. A.), scored two wins in the long and high jumps, as did K. Cornwallis in the quarter and half. A. H. Fyfe broke the college record for the 16-pound hammer by throwing a distance of 136 feet 3 inches.

The Sports have been won on twenty occasions by Oxford and on twenty-one occasions by Cambridge. There have been two dead heats (1864, four events each, and 1899, five all), on both of which occasions had the sports been decided by seconds. Cambridge would have won. Since the commencement of the sports, Oxford has scored 1981-3 first, and 1911-2 seconds, and Cambridge has scored 1942-3 firsts and 1911-2 seconds, out of 393 events.

A look over these figures naturally brings about comparison between these men and America's best, and this will give somewhat of a line on the Olympic games at Athens.

Cornwallis and Parsons, of Yale, will have the hardest tussle of their lives, and it is a toss up, though Cornwallis' latest performance was marvelous. In the mile it looks to me as if Welsh, of Cambridge, can take J. P. Sullivan's measure, though Sullivan has not yet reached his limit. In the weights, England excels. In the broad jumps, Prinstein will have to be at his best to beat P. O'Connor, of Ireland, though the former can always be depended on in a pinch. ## NEW YORK WOMAN'S SHOES

Philadelphia Critic Says Their Appearance Indicates Carelessness.

Said a Philadelphia woman the other day: "There is one peculiarity about women in New York which must strike any stranger coming to the city."

"At home, and in most other places I have visited, a woman feels almost well dressed if only her gloves and shoes are new and really smart looking. In New York that evidently is not the case, at least so far as the footwear is concerned."

"Have you noticed it? Even very well dressed women over here wear poor shoes. When they are not shabby and broken, they are of poor last and cheap leather."

"And the fact is the more remarkable because I have never seen men more extravagant in their footwear than those of New York. The next time you are in an elevated train or street car observe the row of feet opposite. The men will almost without exception be well shod, and there will be glimpses of the most beautiful things in silk and embroidered socks appearing above their shoe tops; while the stylishly clad feminine foot will be conspicuous by its absence."

"I don't know whether it is that the New York woman considers a five-dollar shoe an unheard-of extravagance or whether she is a poor judge of footwear. But whatever it is, I prefer the old-fashioned Philadelphia opinion that a lady is known by her hands and feet more than by anything else."

HER BUSINESS ABILITY.

Flump Deal That Netted Resourceful Wife One Hundred Dollars.

Senator Platt, in a humorous speech was praising woman at a dinner party. "And her business ability!" he exclaimed. "Only the other day the young wife of a young friend of mine said excitedly to her husband on his return home:

"John, I have made more money than you to-day."

"How much have you made?" he asked.

"A hundred dollars," she said proudly.

"Good, good!" cried the young man. "And how did you make it?"

"Well," said the young lady, "you know my old piano that you only paid $300 for? I sold it to-day for $400."

"Gracious, and what are you going to do with all the money?" he asked.

"Oh, there isn't any money," she said.

"Eh?"

"You see, I sold the piano to a dealer," she explained. "He gives me a new one for $400 and allows me $400 for the old one. Haven't I done well? If you'd stay home and let me run your business for you, you'd grow rich. Think, $100 a day! That is over $300,000 a year."

MARYLAND'S OLD VOLCANOS

Three Peaks in Western Mountains Found to Be Metal-Bearing Volcanic Rock.

Prof. Philip R. Uhler returns to the city with the report of a discovery which he made in the western Maryland mountains. Three peaks, the principal one named Buzzard's Knob, crown a plateau about six miles from the city, reports the Baltimore American. It was for Prof. Uhler to discover that the three prominences are in fact volcanoes, and that they are the very oldest type of volcanic rock that is found in the United States.

These peaks are of a different form from volcanoes like Vesuvius. In the latter form of volcano molten lava and stones are forced up by superheated steam, leaving a deep hole, but in these craters in western Maryland the whole mountain was originally in a molten condition and the top crust was forced upward in a dome-shaped form, and such lava as did not escape was forced out in vents at various places. The volcanic rock of the region is metal-bearing, and specimens of gray green and gold copper were found by Dr. Uhler. The domes of the craters were somewhat elliptical in shape.

MEANING OF SURNAMES.

Derivation of Some of the Family Names Familiar in Our Day.

Nearly all surnames originally had a meaning. They were descriptive of their owners. In a word, they were nicknames, like "Skinny," or "Shorty," or "Pud," says the Philadelphia Bulletin.

Peel is a surname that shows the original Peel to have been bald. Grass means fat—from the French "gras." Grant, from "grand," means big. An Oliphant should be a clumsy and unwieldy person. This surname was "elephant" originally.

The Parkers were keepers of noblemen's parks. The Warners were warreners or rabbit tenders. The Barkers prepared bark for tanning. The Laboucheres were butchers. Bell meant handsome. Cameron meant crooked-nosed. Curtis meant polite. And Forster meant forester. Napier, a servant in charge of the table linen; Palmer, a pilgrim; Wainwright, a wagon builder; Webster, a weaver; Wright, a carpenter.

Mending Matters. "Haven't you often wondered why so many broken down widowers want to get married again?"

"Why, no. Naturally, they want to get re-paired."—Baltimore American.

COLLEGE GIRLS GROW FAT

Soon After Entering the "Freshies" They Begin to Acquire Plumpness.

"In a couple of months from now," said a woman who was matron at a women's college for several years, "there will be a flood of letters from girls' freshmen to their mothers, all containing one complaint: 'I'm growing so fat that my clothes won't fit me.' And the mothers will worry and fret, and wardrobes will be sent home to be let out."

"Freshmen at the women's college always grow very plump, and they astonish their friends and relatives when they go home on their first vacation by the amount of flesh they have put on. And it is all due, I believe, to the healthy, normal life that a girl leads at college."

"The food is always palatable, nourishing, and of the best, and even the most finicky maiden learns to eat everything. I have seen girls who entered college with the idea that they could get nothing but the white meat of chicken and lemon ice, contentedly eating fried veal and onions a few weeks later."

"And these meals are always served at a regular time, and with plenty of lively conversation to make them digest easily. Let me say right here, too, that the popular notion that college girls have midnight spreads of indigestibles is a wrong one. Such things belong to a boarding school, but not to a women's college."

"Then there are regular hours for retiring. Lights must be out at ten o'clock, and that means eight hours of good, healthful sleep. The outdoor life also contributes to the plumpness of the girls."

"College girls stay indoors only when they have to, and plenty of fresh air makes them strong and muscular. The gymnasium is another factor. Its purpose is to develop a girl physically, and each freshman is examined that she may get the exercise she most needs."

"Under all these conditions the freshmen rapidly grow plump and rosy and this plumpness they rarely lose during their college course. Even the thinnest girl finds she can wear a delectable evening gown after she has been at college three months, and the fat girls find their superfluous flesh turning into hard, firm muscle."

"And one thing more. College girls are always happy, and every woman grows fat when she is happy."

THE JEWISH PHYSICIAN.

Members of the Medical Profession in History Who Belonged to That Race.

An interesting survey of Jews as members of our profession is to be obtained from a little work entitled "Judeische Aerzte und ihr Einfluss auf das Judentum," which, says the Medical Record, has been issued by Dr. Simon Scherbel. One of the most prominent of the earlier personages mentioned is Chasdai, who became a minister under the Calif Abdul-Rahman III., and did much to establish the position of the Jews among the Moslems in Spain during the tenth century, as well as to foster the study of the Talmud in that country. Jehuda Halevi, who lived 100 years later, was a busy physician who was also the author of distinguished practical and philosophical works. The great Maimonides of Cordova is included among the list of physicians by the author, who says that he created what is almost a new Talmud, and alleges that Richard Coeur de Leon wished to make him his court physician, in spite of the edicts of Popes Eugenius, Nicholas and Calixtus that Christians should not employ Jewish physicians. In Spain many years before they were practically the only practitioners of medicine. Somewhat later Pope Alexander VI. had as personal physician a Jew, Bonet de Lates, who subsequently became attached to the court of Louis X. The edict against Jewish physicians was finally raised by Sixtus V. largely at the instigation of two then celebrated physicians, David de Pomis and Elia Montalto. In the latter part of the eighteenth century Mendelssohn's efforts in behalf of his compatriots were ably seconded by his friend, the physician Marcus Herz, who contributed much toward the elevation of the Jews in Germany. In still more recent time Ascher, Steinheim, Erter and Johann Jacoby have been prominent, and the author closes his enumeration with the widely known names of Strassmann, Neumann, Baginsky and Senator.

Bit of Westmoreland. The Westmoreland hills are the remains of an infinitely older world—giants decayed, but of a great race and ancestry; they have the finish, the delicate or noble loveliness, one might almost say the manner—that comes of long and gentle companionship with stone chief forces that make for nature beauty—with air and water, with temperate suns and too abundant rains. Battle them the Alps are inhuman; the Apennines, more forest-grown, more mountains in the making, still retain that Scotland gains from the enveloping glory of its heath. The Westmoreland, which is almost a plateau, has come to an infinite companionship with stone, air and water, to a peace of nature and to a peace of mind. It is never losing the wild character of mountains and rocks that belong to a mountain world—centuries.

Long Known Moth. The insect long known as the Giant Moth, found in China, the wings of which measure nine inches across.

A Crisis in Her Life

ACCORDING to the unspoken laws of her Bohemian world he was a Philistine and a prig, which means he was a gentleman and old-fashioned in his ideas about women.

She was a Bohemian by circumstances and environment rather than by choice, and it was only from necessity she had spent most of her later girlhood in the precincts of Fleet street. He was amused at her taste for literature and in a mild way proud of her literary attainments. She had written for some years for some of the numerous ladies' magazines, but lately she had done deeper work, and now at last her book was finished. It was almost like a woman's first-born to her, this novel into which she had put her best thoughts and her worst cynicism—a cynicism not innate, only born of a friend's trouble. Sometimes she wondered what Ralph Merton would say when he read her book. She felt he was not a man to tolerate too great a breadth of view in the woman he loved, yet she was sure he would be proud of her success; for even her publisher, and almost every publisher at least, had said that she had written a book that the slightest doubt upon the subject of a woman's life.

"The story is so good," he said. "And people love to read about the common side of life." Margaret was deeply hurt at this open criticism, for that had not been her object; and she explained to her publisher that she did not wish to appeal to the worse but to the better side of human nature, and only to point a wholesome moral. She had written to warn women, and had only spoken in so unashamed a way of sin and evil to teach a lesson and save her sex from bitter suffering.

The publisher merely shrugged his shoulders and accepted the book, and wondered why women hide what they mean by flowery language.

To-day she had received the last of her proofs, and now she was sitting over the fire with her precious burden on her knee. Now and again she lifted a page and reread it carefully, and sat and dreamed, and altered here and there, and sat and dreamed again. Once or twice she struck something out or strengthened and rewrote a sentence, and from time to time she glanced up at the clock, and when at last it struck five she rose, and collecting her papers, put them on the writing table, and, re-seating herself by the fire, sat listening for her lover's footsteps.

Quite unconscious of the depths of his views on woman, she eagerly anticipated his pleasure and pride. She decided not to tell him about her book at first, but, womanlike, keep her news until he should have told her his.

They had finished tea and were sitting together over the fire.

"Won't you have a cigarette, Ralph?"

"You are sure you don't mind, Margaret?"

"Of course not; I love it—it's so home-like. Besides, I want to tell you something, and men can listen better while they smoke."

He took the hand that rested on the side of his chair and raised it gently to his lips. "How you spoil me, Margaret!"

"Nothing to what I shall do by-and-by," she retorted, laughing. "All nice wives spoil their husbands, and I mean to be a very nice wife."

"It's a treat to meet a girl like you in these days, dear," he said; "you are not like a present-day woman, somehow."

"Perhaps they are not so bad as you think."

"Perhaps not," he said, laughing; "but there are some funny ones about. I met one abroad, by the way—a writer, a Miss Vereker"—he paused—"she gave me quite a shock."

Margaret laughed. "Really? What was she like, Ralph? Tossily about the head and floppingly artistic, or the advanced-young-woman type?"

"Neither," he said; "her appearance was charming—to look at—my dear Margaret; she might have been as pure and sweet as you yourself; but her book—well, I never was so thoroughly shocked in my life."

"Do you mean by her book, 'Not Otherwise'?"

He frowned slightly. "I should hardly have thought you even knew the name."

"I have read it," said Margaret, quietly, "and I thought it very clever."

He looked at her in some astonishment. "Clever!" he echoed, "of course it's clever, fiendishly clever, Margaret; no one could doubt that for a moment; but I don't see what that has to do with it. It's appalling to me that an unmarried girl should write a book one cannot show one's women folk. Why can't women leave the coarser side of life to the man novelist to depict?"

"Perhaps she had a moral lesson to teach," said Margaret, speaking a shade coldly.

"Lesson! Nonsense!" said Merton. "It's not an unmarried girl's place to teach moral lessons—not in that way at any rate. You cannot touch pitch without becoming defiled, and for a young girl like that to wallow in literary mud can only show she has an impure mind and wicked imagination."

"My dear Ralph!"

"Well, Margaret, I apologise; but I spoke strongly because I feel strongly, and being as sweet and clean a writer yourself, you may be able to influence a friend who writes that style of book."

"I am sure this book was meant as a warning."

"Pah!" said Ralph, "who can warn by depicting vice? She will harm a hundred where she warns one or two. If a girl wishes to teach the world a lesson let her teach it by her own purity of life and purpose." He stopped abruptly, and added: "I am very glad that young woman does not belong to me, Margaret."

There was a moment's intense silence, as Margaret sat slowly realizing that her book was quite as outspoken. "I am very glad that young woman does not belong to me." Those were the only words she could remember distinctly of all he had said. She knew now why she had not written to tell him about her book. A subtle instinct must have warned her; the instinct that preserves sensitive women from making mistakes with those they love.

But she loved her book, too—did she love it more than Ralph? She hardly knew—she was only conscious of a sudden feeling of icy coldness toward him, and involuntarily she withdrew her hand from his place on his chair, then turned and looked him in the face. "Supposing I had written a book like that, Ralph?"

"I can't suppose anything so abnormal, Margaret—women with minds like you don't dig in mud."

"But supposing I had?" she persisted, feeling as though the decision of her very fate itself hung on his answer.

"I should first ask you not to publish it," said Ralph Merton very slowly, "and—"

"And if I refused?" interrupted Margaret, eagerly. "Supposing I were to refuse your request—"

"I should leave you, Margaret," he said, quietly. "I should never marry a woman who wrote an unclean book. I should never trust her."

"Why not?" she asked, in genuine amazement.

"I should feel she had either done something bad or was capable of doing something bad. It was woman's mission to uplift men by her example in her life, and in her writings if she writes."

"Aren't you a little hard and narrow, Ralph?"

"Perhaps so," he answered, gravely.

"I dare say I am narrow, Margaret—according to an ordinary modern woman's creed—but my wife will have to come up to my standard."

For a long time after Ralph Merton had left the room Margaret sat quietly looking into the fire. In one short hour her whole point of view of life had changed. She had thought her lover would be proud of her success, and she hoped he would even understand her motive in writing her book. It was even more outspoken, and dealt even more deeply perhaps with the subject of sin and passion than that other book of which he had spoken with such contempt and open loathing. It was horrible to her to think that Ralph would imagine she had used his misfortune—as an ignoble means of attaining success and money.

Margaret realized as she sat there with closely clasped hands, her heart peating with a heavy thud of nervous excitement, that she had reached a crisis in her life. How much was this man's love worth to her, and what was against her art? Two alternatives lay before her. She must either give up Ralph, or give up publishing her book.

She knew her aim had been single, and her desire quite pure; but Ralph would never understand that, and therefore she need not put his faith and trust to such a test. If she published the story she knew he would never marry her. To lose him would be torture—and yet to lose her book would be torture, too. She sat there, torn first one way and then another, communing with herself—facing life and pain and pride, she felt a bitter sense of disappointment that amounted almost to despair. Gradually the glowing brightness died slowly down and only the gray ashes gathered and gathered until the last red glow began to fade, and still Margaret sat battling with ambition and her love.

"Shall I make the fire up for you, miss?"

"No, thanks, Mallam."

The maid waited. "It's a chilly night, miss, and it's raining, too. Shall I bring a few sticks in?"

Margaret stirred impatiently, waited a moment, and then said in her usual gentle voice: "Very well, thank you—make it up if you like."

The maid left the room to fetch the wood, and Margaret rose with a slight shiver and crossed to the writing table on which she had laid her precious proofs. Beside them stood her lover's photograph. She took it up and looked at it long and intently. It was a frank and open face, and she recalled with a throb of womanly pride the blue eyes that grew so tender when they looked at her and remembered with a thrill of tenderness the touch of the strong, warm hand and the voice that had said to her only that very day:

"My dear Margaret, I may be a little narrow; but my wife will have to come up to my standard."

It was a good standard—she recognized that—for it touched the high level that avoided "even the appearance of evil," and it was a standard she might do well to reach not only in his opinion of her, but in her life and work. We each live in our own isolated world of thought, and the most bitter sacrifices we ever make are those only known to our secret selves. Margaret bent her head and looked once more at her lover's photograph, and then, with a hand that trembled almost uncontrollably, she gently replaced it on her table, and, taking her proofs, crossed quickly to the fire, and, kneeling, tore them leaf by leaf and pressed them steadily into the flame.—Westminster Gazette.

FAILED TO BEAT 'PHONE.

Man with Plugged Coin Was Not Foxy Enough to Make It Work.

A friend of the proprietor went into a cigar store the other day and stepped to the slot telephone. Taking down the receiver, he told the girl at the central station what number he wanted. Then, says the Philadelphia Inquirer, while she was ringing up that number he called out to the proprietor or the store:

"Say, Bert, why isn't this a good place to work off this plugged dime?"

"It is," said the proprietor. "Chuck it in."

In a moment the girl said: "Ten cents please."

Down went the plugged dime into the slot.

"Too-oo-oot," went the little horn in the machine.

"Ten cents, please," said the girl again.

"I just put in a dime," he protested.

"I know," she answered, "but you'll have to put in another. That one was plugged."

"I thought probably it would be a good place to work off the plugged dime," the proprietor laughed later. "It was. You worked it off all right."

"But how the mischief did she know it was plugged?" asked the friend. The horn tooted all right."

"Yes," said the proprietor, "but she's a pretty smart girl. She knows—especially when you hold the receiver in your hand and tell somebody you are going to put in a plugged coin."

MONKEY AND THE LADY.

Feminine Fashionable Has a New Whim Which Makes Her Conspicuous.

The monkey is being adopted as a pet by some women in these days. This fashion is exhibited to the world because it is the thing to do to take the monkey out driving with you, if you own one, says the New York Sun.

"I take my monkey out driving, just as I would a pet dog," explained a pioneer in this field.

Her friends did not believe her until the other day, when one of them came forward to corroborate her.

"I saw her," said this witness. "I was on a side street, standing at the curb about to cross the street, when I found my eyes fixed upon the almost human eyes of a monkey walking on the top of the closed doors of a passing hansom."

"Back of the monkey she sat looking as pretty as a picture and evidently much pleased with the attention that her pet was drawing to himself, not to mention herself."

"He was not one bit the barrel-organ type of monkey, but a dainty monkey wearing no other coat than his own natural fur, the color of a fawn with a sheen of satin."

"A silver collar set with turquoise circled the little creature's neck. A silver chain attached the collar to the mistress' hand. She, by the way, carried out the silver and pale blue color scheme charmingly in her own attire."

WORLD'S WETTEST PLACE.

Where the Average Annual Rainfall Is Nearly Thirty-Seven Feet.

The wettest place in the world, according to the Russian Meteorological Journal, as abstracted in the Revue Scientifique, is Cherrapunji, in the Indian province of Assam. From 1895 to 1903 the average annual rainfall was 11,223 meters (nearly 37 feet).

Next came the environs of Bombay, with 6.83 meters annually. But it should be noted that at the station of Debundscha, in Kamerun, 10,454 meters (34 feet) of rain fell annually, chiefly in summer. The wettest year in Cherrapunji was 14,789 meters (48 feet) in 1881, and in Debundscha 14,133 meters (46 feet) in 1902. In the latter place there fell in the one day of June 16, 1902, 456 millimeters (over one and a half feet) of water—more than the whole annual average in the Parisian basin.

The neighborhood of warm seas and high mountains is the principal cause of these extraordinary precipitations. It may be expected that the extension of meteorological observation will show other zones of rainfall more intense than has been hitherto believed, as in Java and Sumatra.

Hoot of the French Motor.

One generally thinks of the French language as being more musical than our harsher northern tongue. But the motor-hoot in French is a far more ear-splitting affair than it is in English. To begin with, it is more often a siren than a hoot, and all over France one now hears the long, ex-cruciating wails that are generally associated with ships—or with souls in torment. And when, as in some instances, a railway whistle is substituted, and the automobile rushes shrieking over the country-side like an express train, the English tourist discovers very emphatically that he does not like the motor-horn with a French accent.

HOMELESS THOUSANDS SHIVERING

Earlier in the evening the terrible strain put upon the people of San Francisco who still have a roof over their heads tonight found relaxation in many houses in music and song. Lights were permitted in all houses until 10 o'clock and everywhere was heard the cheerful sound of the piano once more and the harmony of voices of prayer for safety and deliverance after days and nights of uncertainty and terror.

San Francisco, April 23.—The new San Francisco which will rise from the ashes of the old was in its first stages of building today. After five days of confusion and almost superhuman effort on the part of citizens of California's metropolis in the great task of sheltering, feeding and otherwise caring for the homeless thousands, complete order has been re-established and attention turned to the future.

Throughout the great business district, where the devastation of the flames was the most complete, walls were being razed, buildings that had not disintegrated before the intense heat were being inspected with a view to reoccupancy, and even ground was being cleared for the immediate construction of some sort of building in which to resume business at the earliest possible time.

Little Robbers Doing Well
Oakland, Cal., April 23.—The newsboys are reaping a harvest, many of them clearing $20 or $40 a day. The line in front of the Tribune office every afternoon is two blocks long, and places near the door are readily sold to other boys who arrive later, and do not want to wait for their papers. So numerous are the little fellows and so anxious to secure their afternoon stock that two militiamen are required at each newspaper office to keep them in order.

Greely Succeeds Funston.
San Francisco, April 23.—General A. D. Greely took command of the federal troops at this post superseding General Frederick Funston, who will act under his orders. General Greely has established headquarters at Fort Mason, just east of the Presidio reservation, on the north shore of San Francisco Bay.

CONGRESS RAISES RELIEF FUND TO $2,500,000.

Washington, April 24.—The senate this afternoon passed a resolution appropriating $1,500,000 for the San Francisco sufferers.

When the senate convened today the message of Saturday afternoon was received from the president, recommending the appropriation of an additional $1,500,000. It was immediately referred to the committee on appropriations. The house joint resolution, appropriating $1,000,000 additional relief, on Saturday, by that body was also laid before the senate.

Mr. Allison, chairman of the committee on appropriations, stated that his committee had received an advance copy and had considered it today. He offered an amendment increasing the appropriation to $1,500,000, in accordance with the president's request. He also offered an amendment making the fund applicable to the payment of extra mileage on the Pacific coast. In this form the resolution was passed. The house subsequently passed the amendment.

Express Companies.

Manager Decker of the local office for the Southern Express company, and Manager Lagerwahl for the American Express company here, have both received word from their respective headquarters, announcing that each of the express companies will transport free of charge contributions of money or supplies intended to relieve the suffering at San Francisco. The articles sent must be consigned to relief committees or city officials.

Heard From Family.

Mr. Ernest McIntyre of the American Express company, yesterday morning received a telegram from San Francisco stating that his mother, Mrs. M. A. McIntyre, his Mr. Morris McIntyre, and his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hobson, had escaped without injury at the disaster which wrecked that city. Mr. McIntyre was confident they had escaped because their home is several miles from the part of town worst destroyed, but naturally he felt a great fear for their safety.

WILD WITH ITCHING HUMOR

Eruption Broke Out in Spots All Over Body—Caused a Continual Itching for Two Years—Doctor's Medicine Did no Good—Cured at Expense of only $1.25 and Now

THANKS CUTICURA FOR COMPLETE CURE

"Some time ago I wrote you for a book on the Cuticura Remedies and received it O. K. and went and bought the Soap, Ointment, and Pills. They did me more good than any medicine I ever used. They cured me of my skin disease, and I am very thankful to you. My trouble was eruption of the skin, which broke out in spots all over my body, and caused a continual itching which nearly drove me wild at times. I got medicine of a doctor, but it did not cure me, and when I saw in a paper your ad., I sent to you for the Cuticura book and I studied my case in it. I then went to the drug store and bought one cake of Cuticura Soap, one box of Cuticura Ointment, and one vial of Cuticura Pills. From the first application I received relief. I used the first set and two extra cakes of Cuticura Soap, and was completely cured. I had suffered for two years, and I again thank Cuticura for my cure. If you wish, you may publish this. Your friend forever, Claude N. Johnson, Maple Grove Farm, R. F. D. 2, Walnut, Kan., June 15, 1905."
